PREFACE.

This genealogy of one branch of the Gross family was prepared by my father and is the result of a great deal of work over a period of several years. Previous to his work on the subject, we had no knowledge as to the ancestry of Thomas Gross, father of Ezra Carter Gross. In order to make the record available to all of the descendants of Ezra Carter Gross, I have had a number of stencil copies made. Perhaps some day it will be printed in a larger and more complete form, but in the meantime this record preserves all that we know about the life and work of Thomas Gross and Ezra Carter Gross, and their ancestry back to the time when Isaac Gross came to this country.

Hamilton Bradshaw.

Wilmington, Delaware,

July 1921.

ISAAC GROSSE.

Isaac Grosse came from England with his wife, Ann, and three sons, Edmund, Clement, and Matthew, previous to 1635.

Some one has said he came from Cornwall County, England. Neither his nor his sons' names are mentioned in the Cornwall County Parish Registers of Marriages from 1550 to 1640. At that time there were a great many Grosses in Cornwall and Norfolk, England.

He was a Brewer, but called "an husbandman" when admitted to the First Church in Boston, Mass., April 17, 1636.

Having joined the Antinomians with John Wheelwright, he with others was disarmed Nov. 20, 1637, and was dismissed from the First Church Jan'y 6, 1638, and went with them to Exeter, where he was a leading man in that community.

Afterwards seeing the folly of his ways he returned to Boston.

In 1636, he was granted "a great allotment of land at Muddy River." He had large possessions of real estate in Boston, where are now State Street and Faneuil Hall, and at the North end.

Was a man of consequence, and had the title of "Mr." The Boston Town Records mention him as follows:

"Aprl. 17, 1637 - Isaac Grosse appointed with others to look after the gates and fences.

"May 31, 1647 - Isaac Grosse is not to sell any beer by the quart within doors any more."

In the Book of Possessions, Isaac Grosse "has one house bounded with Wm. Pierce on the south and the east, Edward Bendall west, and the cove on the north"; also "a house and garden about $\frac{1}{2}$ an acre"; also "a house and garden."

Muddy River was the boundary line bet. Roxbury and Brookline. Muddy River district is now Brookline.

Isaac Grosse's will dated May 29, 1649, and proved June 5, 1649, is as follows:

29th day, 3 Mon., 1649 - Isack Grosse of Boston, Brewer. Being sicke. To wife, the house I now live in, with the onset and one hundred pounds starling. £ 12 = in money, the other in goods.

Unto Edmund Grosse £ 200.

Unto Clement Grosse £ 100.

Unto Matthew Grosse £ 100.

Unto Mr. John Cotton, teacher of the Church of Boston £ 10.

To Philemon Pormort of Wells £ 10.

To Will^m Mardayle of Wells £ 5.

To George Baytes of Boston £ 5.

To my grandchild, Isack Grosse, £ 20.

To my grandchildren, Hannah and Susanna Grosse, each £ 5.

To my grandchild, Tho. Grosse, £ 10.

To the child which my son Clement's wife goeth withall, if born alive, £ 5.

To my wife besides the above mentioned my servant
the Indyan, named Lewes.

My son, Edmund, Executor.

The Testator, I. Grosse.

Isaac Waker.

Isaac Grosse died in Boston, Mass., May - June 1649.

Rich in his book "Truro - Cape Cod" says:

"It has been accepted as good history that the Cape Cod family of Gross were Huguenots, and that the name not many generations back was DeGross.

"Gross is evidently a French name. They may have been Huguenots, but probably of Norman stock.
The American family were indisputably from England."

Dec. 14, 1635 - Isaac Grosse "allotment of 50 acres, being 80 Rodd in length to the southwest and northeast."
(Boston Town Records).

The Disarming.

Nov. 20, 1637, Whereas, the opinions and revelations of Mr. Wheelwright and Mrs. Hutchinson have seduced and led into dangerous errors many of the people here in New England, insomuch as there is inst. cause of suspition that they, as others in Germany, in former times, may, upon some revelation, make some suddaine irruption upon those that differ from them in judgment, for prevention whereof, it is ordered that all those whose names are underwritten shall (upon warning given or left at their dwelling houses) before the 30th day of this month of November, deliver in at Mr. Cane's house at Boston, all such guns, pistols, swords, powder, shot, and match as they shall be owners of, or have in their custody, upon paine of ten pound for ev^ry default to be made thereof; w^{ch} armes are to be kept by Mr. Cane till this Court shall take further order therein.

Also, it is ordered, upon like penalty of x^t, that no man who is to render his armes by this order shall buy or borrow any guns, swords, pistols, powder, shot, or match, untill this Court shall take further order therein.

EDMUND GROSSE.

Edmund Grosse, son of Isaac Grosse, came from England with his father previous to 1635.

He was allowed for an inhabitant of Boston Dec. 30, 1639.

Had land allotted to him Jan'y 27, 1639, and the year following.

Was admitted to the Church with his wife, Katherine, Mar. 22, 1645.

He is described as a "seafaring man", and according to the Mass. Bay Colony Records he was interested in vessels and fitting them out with cargoes as owner and part owner.

The Boston Town Records mention him as follows:

"June 27, 1639, Edmund Grosse allotted a square piece of ground for a house plot.

"Apl. 27, 1640, allotted a lott for two heads."

In Book of Possessions, he has "one house and lot bounded with lane north, Samuel Cole south, Isaac Cullimer west and Bay East."

His will dated May 3, 1655, is as follows:

I, Edmund Grosse, of Boston, give the bigger half of my now dwelling house to my son, Isaack, and the lesser half of my house to my wife, being the better part thereof, for my wife to enjoy her lifetime, and then to return to my daughter, Susan. I give my best suit and cloaks to my son Isaack, my dau. Susan, my second cloak, my best seare coat to my wife. My six acres of marsh and ten acres of upland that layeth on Runney Marsh, equally to be divided between my son, Isaack, and my dau. Susan. I give my 50 acres of land that layeth at Muddy River to be equally divided between my wife and five children proportionably.

Edmund Grosse.

Francis Hudson.

Edward Yeomanes.

In his account of debts and credits, Edmund Grosse mentions "my sister, Mary Grosse."

This will was turned down by the authorities.

CLEMENT GROSSE.

Clement Grosse came from England with his father, Isaac, previous to 1635, and followed the occupation of Brewer.

Was a licensed Innholder in 1658, and the Town Records show the license was renewed every year following up to and including 1678.

The Records of May 9, 1676 - 9 mention:

"Ale house of Clement Grosse was set on fire, extinguished before it did material damage.

"Feb'y 5, 1669, Clement Grosse made a bond with James Oliver and Richard Callicott as securities to act as Administrator of the Estate of his son, Clement Gross, Jr.

Witnesses

Thomas Weld.

Grace Bendall."

This is the only mention of Clement Grosse, Jr., in the various records of that time.

Clement married his first wife, Mary, before 1649, and his second wife was Ann.

He had 8 children, 5 sons and 3 daughters.

The records show Clement Grosse was living in Boston, Oct. 10, 1683,

Truro - Cape Cod by Rich says:

"Clement left son, Simon, who in 1675 married Mary Bond in Boston and settled in Hingham."

Treat Family Genealogy says:

"Clement had 5 sons and 3 daughters."

MATTHEW GROSSE.

Matthew Grosse came from England with his father, Isaac, previous to 1635.

He lived and died in Boston.

He was appointed "Overseer of Wood Corders" in 1681 - 1689 and 1693.

On May 29, 1655, he swore he was about 25 years of age.

Was on the list of Taxable Inhabitants of Boston in 1687.

His will dated Dec. 28, 1693, and proved Feby. 22, 1694, gives to son Edward (of whose birth we are ignorant) double portion and equal shares to others.

It was customary in those days to leave a double portion to the eldest son.

Matthew Grosse died in Boston, 1694.

Simon Grosse (307) was in King Philip's war, from Hingham, 1675-6. See "Soldiers in King Philip's War" by Hodge, p. 449.

Simon (307) had 8 children, 5 sons, 2 daughters, and one sex unknown.

SIMON GROSS (307) is generally supposed to have been a son of Clement Grosse, though some think he was a son of Edmund, his brother. At any rate, he was a grandson of Isaac Grosse.

He removed to Hingham, where he was a Cordwainer. Was at Hingham as early as 1675. Was designated as "Boatman." Resided at South Street, Hingham. His widow, Mary, was appointed Administratrix of his Estate, appraised at £ 196. ^{5/3}. His children were all born in Hingham.

Simon Gross had 8 children, 5 sons, 2 daughters, and one sex unknown. This one "sex unknown" we presume is Isaac (411).

Between 1709 and 1713, Simon's father, Micah, moved from Hingham to Truro with his wife and child, Simon.

Simon Gross owned the Covenant April 25, 1731, and his first wife, Elizabeth, was admitted to full communion June 3, 1733.

His second wife, Phebe, was admitted to full communion at Truro, Mass., Oct. 27, 1752, and having removed with her husband and family to Lebanon, Conn., was dismissed to the Church at Lebanon, Conn., Oct. 30, 1757.

Simon Gross removed with his family to Lebanon, Conn., between 1751 and 1753.

His home from then on was in Lebanon, Conn., where he died and where he was buried. His gravestone is still standing (in 1916) in the Lebanon Burying Grounds. His grave was the first one in Lebanon marked as "a Revolutionary Soldier."

Copy of Inscription

In Memory of Capt. Simon Gross
who died Feby. 23, 1796
in y^e 8th year of his age.

Death is a debt
To nature due
Which I have paid
And so must you.

Mrs. L. W. Abell, wife of Chas. J. Abell, Town Clerk,

Treasurer, and Registrar of Lebanon, Conn., writes Jany. 15, 1916, as follows:

"Capt. Simon Gross was a Revolutionary Soldier. Descendants of his sent a Revolutionary Marker for his grave; and it was the first one set up in this town.

"Now we have about 90 markers in Revolutionary graves - proved and accepted by the State Registrar.

"L. W. Abell is Asst. Registrar of U. S. at Lebanon, Conn.

"W. G. Kingsley, former Town Clerk of Lebanon, has a compilation of various records in and around the Town, including family records, births, deaths, marriages, etc., in manuscript form."

Lieutenant Simon Gross was with Continental Frigate "Confederacy" when dismasted, and probably with her when captured.

The Continental Frigate "Confederacy", 36 guns, was built on the Thames below Norwich and launched in 1778.

On Oct. 20, 1779, she sailed from Philadelphia for France, having on board the French Minister Gerard, and the newly appointed American Minister to Spain, the Hon. John Jay, as passengers. On the 7th of November, the vessel encountered a great storm, and lost all her masts and sails, and was obliged to make her way to Martinico, reaching that port Dec. 18th.

Being refitted the "Confederacy" put to sea again, but was subsequently, Mar. - April 1781, captured off the Capes

REV^D. THOMAS GROSS (616).

Born in Lebanon, Conn., Nov. 12, 1758. His father, Capt. Simon Gross, having removed from Truro, Mass., to Lebanon, Conn., about 1752.

In 1776, he married Judith Carter in Concord, N. H., and graduated from Dartmouth College at Hanover, N. H., in 1784.

June 7, 1786, he was ordained Pastor of the Congregational Church at Hartford, Vt., its first. Was dismissed in Feby. 1808.

Was well known throughout the State.

Some time after his dismissal he removed to Batavia, N. Y., where he died in 1843, aged 84 yrs.

"History of Hartford, Vt.", by Wm. H. Tucker, says:

"Rev. Mr. Gross graduated from Dartmouth College in 1784, at the age of 25 yrs. Ministry at Hartford lasted nearly 22 years. An able preacher and well known throughout the State. Resolute in purpose."

The "Keeseville Herald" of Apl. 28, 1829, said of Rev. Thomas Gross:

"A man of genius and a scholar."

Gov. Joseph Marsh was born in Lebanon, Conn., Jany. 12, 1726. His daughter, Rhoda, was born in Lebanon, Conn., 1754, and came with her father, Joseph Marsh, to Hartford, Vt., in 1771 - 72.

Rhoda married for her first husband, Thomas White Pitkin, who was drowned May 3, 1787, leaving her with 6 children.

Revd. Thomas Gross in a letter to his three granddaughters, Emily, Juliet, and Charlotte, daughters of Ezra Carter Gross, concerning their grandmother, Judith, says:

"Because my first wife was your grandmother, I will say a few things of her.

"She was the admiration of all who knew her. She was a very handsome woman. She was sensible and possessed of the most amiable disposition, of rather small size, but an excellent figure. Her conversation was instructive and engaging, and she died in a happy frame of mind, bidding her friends a final farewell.

"Such is an imperfect representation of your grandmother."

Gov. Joseph Marsh.

b. in Lebanon, Conn., Jany. 12, 1726.

d. Feby. 9, 1811.

m. Dorothy Mason, Jany. 10, 1750. b. 1732.

d. 1810.

Came to Hartford, Vt., in 1772.

Rhoda Marsh's picture, and some account of her life, is in the "Cosmopolitan" for April 1894.

From "Dartmouth College Records" , by Arthur Bedell,
May 1910:

"Thomas Gross, Class of 1784, A.M. Parentage not known.

"Studied divinity, ordained pastor of Congregational Church at Hartford, Vt., June 7, 1786.
Dismissed in Feb. 1808. Removed some time after this and ultimately lived in Batavia, New York, where he died March 18, 1843.

"Married first Judith Carter, second Rhoda, daughter of Hon. Joseph Marsh, and relict of Thomas White Pitkin, of Hartford."

Dartmouth College under President Wheelock, then Moore's Charity School" for the education of Indian Youth, had been taken up almost bodily and transported from Columbia, then a part of this town (Lebanon, Conn.) to Hanover, N. H., just across the river. And, so many of the settlers went with it from this vicinity, that twenty or more of the neighboring towns in Vermont bear the names of the Connecticut towns from which the settlers came.

(From "Lebanon War Office", Jonathan Trumbull, p. 79).

The "Eastman Genealogy" by Guy S. Rix, gives "Judith Carter, daughter of Dr. Ezra and Ruth Eastman Carter; also mentions Judith's marriage to Rev. Thomas Gross, and their son, Ezra Carter Gross with his three daughters.

Admitted Attorney of Supreme Court,	1810
Removed to Elizabethtown, N. Y., and established himself in the prac- tice of law.
Admitted a Master in Chancery,	1812
Married Phebe B. Fisher,	1815
Was Surrogate of Essex Co., Mch 1815 to Mch.,	1819
Was Supervisor from Elizabethtown,	1818
Was elected to Congress in For term 1819 - 21.	1818
Delivered his Missouri Compromise Speech in Congress, Feby. 11,	1820
Removed to Keeseville,	1825
Buried his wife, April	1827
Elected to State Legislature, two terms, 1827 and	1828
Died at Albany, N. Y., April 8,	1829

His portrait hung for years in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, Pa.

Nov. 28, 1838, Ransom E. Woods writes to his sister-in-law, Charlotte C. Gross:

"We met Mr. Morse last evening at Peale's Museum. He thinks the portrait of your father as good a likeness as he ever saw. It has recently been placed in a more conspicuous place, and appears to much better advantage."

Peale's portraits were moved to Philadelphia.

Extracts from Newspaper Articles anent Ezra Carter Gross, after his death Apl. 9, 1829:

The "Keeseville Herald" of April 28, 1829, says:

"Mr. Gross' mind was early disciplined by his father, a man of genius and a scholar.

"Its characteristics were retentive memory, ready invention, and rapid association. It was not formed for the slow creeping after knowledge, but reached its object like the lion bounding on his prey.

"He possessed in no ordinary degree the power of directing his attention to a single object and of condensing everything material to the exclusion of everything foreign.

"He seldom took notes - and would listen, for days, to the most intricate trial, and in summing up, omit not a solitary fact that had a bearing upon the cause.

"He exposed the secret springs of the heart, and vividly delineated the lights and shades of character.

"His living energy of language, his classical allusions, his impassioned and graceful manner, threw around his hearers a spell from which there was no escape. Such qualities form the orator and statesman, not the man of detail.

"In conversation, there were the originality, the graceful manner, and the extensive acquaintance with literature and science which charmed in debate.

"Such was Ezra C. Gross."

From the "New York Enquirer":

"The late Mr. Gross of the Assembly had perhaps talents of as original a kind as any other individual in that body.

"As a speaker he shone with great lustre. His wit was chaste - his remarks pungent - and his style and language uncommonly correct and finished. In his manner, there was an ease and a nonchalance which set him off to much advantage.

"During the present session, he was a frequent participator in debate. He never spoke long on a question, but what he said had a great dash of epigram and point in it. His language had a terseness - a polish - a propriety that bore a striking resemblance to those same qualities in the great Roanoke orator. His personal appearance gave evidence of his talents."

From the "Albany Daily Advertiser":

"Mr. Gross was formerly a member of Congress, and for the last two years has been in the Assembly of this State. He was a man of great vigor of mind, and as may be known from the fact that during this session it has been a common remark, that he was the ablest man in the House.

"Whenever he spoke he was listened to with marked attention, and he had an influence corresponding with the high opinion entertained of him. His speech at the commencement of the session, in support of his resolution to abrogate the two-third provision in the constitution, received the highest applause from all who heard or read it. As a man he was held in high regard, and many tears of friendship will bedew his grave."

Plattsburgh, N. Y., 1909, p. 408:

"Dec. 9, 1811. The date of a letter written by Wm. Ray of Elizabethtown to Gov. Tomkins in regard to appointments.

"The following April, Mr. Ray, now editor of the first paper ever printed in Essex County, wrote to the Governor, at the same time sending him the first number of the new paper and referring to Ezra C. Gross, 'a young gentleman of sound principles and excellent talents,' as his associate in the editorial department.

"Ezra Carter Gross, son of the Rev. Thomas Gross (the first settled minister of Hartford, Vt.) and his wife, Judith Carter, was a graduate of Middlebury College and a rising young lawyer. In 1817, he held a Captain's commission in Col. Luman Wadham's regiment and had filled several civil offices with credit.

"During his term in Congress (1819 - 1821) he made a memorable speech on the Missouri Compromise.

"His portrait hung for years in Independence Hall, Philadelphia. In the famous trial of Wm. H. Houghton of Chazy, indicted for murder, Mr. Gross was associated with Judge Lynde, Wm. Sweetland, and Samuel Stevens, then of Washington County, in making successful defense. His promising career was cut short by his early death at Albany, April 9, 1829, while member of Assembly. His wife, Phebe Fisher, daughter of Josiah and Phebe (Hall) Fisher, also died early, leaving three daughters, Emily P., Juliet, and Charlotte Caroline. Emily was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Keese. She taught in Essex County Academy, Westport, and married Ransom E. Wood, a wealthy man of Upper Jay. In Derbyshire, England, where she lies buried, a memorial window in the little church recalls the country girl of Essex County. Her sister, Juliet, after teaching in the old brick school house of Elizabethtown, married Monroe Hall of Lower Jay, while Charlotte became the wife of George Burt of Ausable Forks.
